If the Respondent Is the Employer/Legal Representative

Not your internship supervisor

File a complaint directly with the competent authority of the company.
(Gender Equality in Employment Act)

The one who is also your internship supervisor

File a complaint with the competent authority of the company .
(Gender Equality in Employment Act)

Or ask your own university's GEEC to investigate.
(Gender Equity Education Act)

You do not have to decide alone. The university can help you identify an appropriate route and coordinate the next steps.

OTHER POSSIBLE SITUATIONS

01 Another employee at the internship institution

If the person is an employee but not your internship supervisor, the employer generally handles the complaint under the Gender Equality in Employment Act.

02 A third party outside the internship site

For example, a landlord or a shop owner. Whether the Sexual Harassment Prevention Act applies depends on the relationship and on what happened.

03 The respondent is unknown

You may seek help or file a complaint with the police nearby where the incident occurred. Please also tell the university, so it can support you.
